Our last meeting focused on what we think is needed to bring about fundamental change. Also, we started to talk about what an Ottawa Assembly could look like.

The purpose of the next meeting is (a) for all of us to get to know each other better, and (b) to start answering the question: what is the organizational and political void in Ottawa that we need to fill to make real change.

Please come and help build the Ottawa Assembly.

It is a project in the making. The purpose is to create something powerful, dynamic and effective-- something that can bring about fundamental economic and social change.

Skeptical? They said this about our last meeting:

"I am excited. We need something like this."

"We need an organization that will act the way we want the world to be. This is a hopeful start."

"Not what I expected, and that is a good thing."
