

World Slump

The Financial Crisis and Emerging Class Struggles in the Global South

- Patrick Bond – Director, Centre for Civil Society, University of KwaZulu-Natal, Durban
- Adam Hanieh – Department of Political Science, York University, currently teaching and living in Dubai

The political period that has opened up since the financial turbulence of 2007 began to grip the world market has led to both a crisis of neoliberalism and an attempt to reconstruct it. The overaccumulation of capital in key sectors in the U.S. and Europe, particularly in real estate markets, auto production and financial services, has led to an economic contraction that has spread across global capitalism. The 'global south' has experienced some of the worst impacts of neoliberalism and of the world slump. This discussion will explore the impact of the financial crisis in the global south, particularly with respect to cases in Africa and the Middle East, and emerging class struggles.

Sunday June 28th, 2:00pm
Centre for Social Justice
489 College, 3rd Floor
Toronto

Co-sponsored by Socialist Project and
Centre for Social Justice

Interested in socialist news and views?
Sign up for the Socialist Project's
e-bulletin, The Bullet, at www.socialistproject.ca

World Slump

The Financial Crisis and Emerging Class Struggles in the Global South

- Patrick Bond – Director, Centre for Civil Society, University of KwaZulu-Natal, Durban
- Adam Hanieh – Department of Political Science, York University, currently teaching and living in Dubai

The political period that has opened up since the financial turbulence of 2007 began to grip the world market has led to both a crisis of neoliberalism and an attempt to reconstruct it. The overaccumulation of capital in key sectors in the U.S. and Europe, particularly in real estate markets, auto production and financial services, has led to an economic contraction that has spread across global capitalism. The 'global south' has experienced some of the worst impacts of neoliberalism and of the world slump. This discussion will explore the impact of the financial crisis in the global south, particularly with respect to cases in Africa and the Middle East, and emerging class struggles.

Sunday June 28th, 2:00pm
Centre for Social Justice
489 College, 3rd Floor
Toronto

Co-sponsored by
Socialist Project and
Centre for Social Justice

Interested in socialist news and views?
Sign up for the Socialist Project's
e-bulletin, The Bullet, at
www.socialistproject.ca